

Black Panther : a new superhero on our screens

Black Panther has all the thrills of a Marvel superhero movie, but it's also making History : the first ever big budget comic book story with a Black superhero, about a world without racism where Black people have wealth, technology and power.

This film reminds us what's great about ourselves, it's been called a masterpiece, a worldwide phenomenon and for some it feels like resistance.

The creative team is gratified by the response. « I knew that this could be something that I would be proud of but you never know if everybody else would feel the same way »

Academy award woman ... is the leading lady

« What do you hope that film can offer children ? »

« When you have images like this Black Panther, you see people assuming position of power that look like you, it becomes that much more possible »

Kids celebrating free tickets, at the Harlem's boys and girls club, an online ticket found raising went viral

« Do you think we need more movies like this in the future? »

« if we have more, that would influence more people, it's very cool to watch something that inspires everybody »

« Kids can absolutely walk away and feel like royalty, feel like warriors, feel like kings and queens »

A fantasy rooted in reality now leaping from the big screen
