

Garden Parties- Transcript

Four regular garden parties are held each year. One at the palace of Holyroodhouse in Scotland, and three at Buckingham Palace. Approximately ten thousands of guests from all walks of life gather are invited to each garden party. Their names are put forward by the government, the Armed Services and a number of charities and societies.

Gates open at three pm, but guests often start queuing much earlier. Once they have arrived in the Buckingham Palace garden, there is much to do. Two bands play alternately, tea is served and there is an opportunity to relax and explore the garden, a unique opportunity, as unlike the state rooms, the garden is never open to the general public.

There is much more to the garden than just the lawn on which the garden party is held, including a worth of wild life, beautifully kept flower beds, and a summer house.

At four pm, the Royal family come on to the west terrace which overlooks the garden. When the queen reaches the steps, the national anthem is played. Other members of the family support the queen and the duke of Edinburgh, by attending at least one garden party each year. These occasions enable the royal family to recognize achievements throughout the uk, in a very memorable way.

Garden Parties- Transcript

Four regular garden parties are held each year. One at the palace of Holyroodhouse in Scotland, and three at Buckingham Palace. Approximately ten thousands of guests from all walks of life gather are invited to each garden party. Their names are put forward by the government, the Armed Services and a number of charities and societies.

Gates open at three pm, but guests often start queuing much earlier. Once they have arrived in the Buckingham Palace garden, there is much to do. Two bands play alternately, tea is served and there is an opportunity to relax and explore the garden, a unique opportunity, as unlike the state rooms, the garden is never open to the general public.

There is much more to the garden than just the lawn on which the garden party is held, including a worth of wild life, beautifully kept flower beds, and a summer house.

At four pm, the Royal family come on to the west terrace which overlooks the garden. When the queen reaches the steps, the national anthem is played. Other members of the family support the queen and the duke of Edinburgh, by attending at least one garden party each year. These occasions enable the royal family to recognize achievements throughout the uk, in a very memorable way.