

SCRIPT GLOBALISATION

This is planet Earth, the home of seven billion people ,we 're divided in many ways but what we see is the global network that connects us all

This is the age of globalization ,I'm Kohn Hoberman ,during my life as a professor ,I've travelled the world and everywhere I go I'm looking for the positive and negative effects of globalization .

As an American I recognize that my country projects its enormous power across the globe but I also know that the world contains many voices which must be heard and globalization can destroy racial stereotypes and all the assumptions about cultural superiority

As a student in this course you will learn about the systems that constitute globalization you will learn why the basic principle of globalization is competition and you will learn how the world is connected more than ever before,no matter where you live on the planet you are participating in globalization taking this course is a form of globalization, globalization processes are all around you ,look for them ,because globalization is the biggest topic on earth .

What appears that the students can read :
